There is a mountain of paperwork for conveyancers to consider when acting for a buyer on a new build – which is a risk for the client and the firm. This three-hour course will focus on some of the riskier aspects including:

- Planning Issues: CIL/s106 Agreements and how they may affect your client
- Planning Issues: The worry of pre-commencement conditions
- What searches should you carry out and why?
- Amendments to the Standard Conditions of Sale – which ones should you accept?
- Some lender and Help to Buy requirements

Lorraine Richardson (M.A. Cantab) is a conveyancing expert, solicitor, and legal trainer.

Whilst in partnership in practice, she ran a branch office and was the COLP for her firm. Lorraine is now freelance and has set up her own company, Adapt Law Limited. In addition to locum work, she writes and delivers training for a variety of organisations including law firms, universities, and professional bodies.

Lorraine works with the Legal Training Team to deliver bespoke courses for in house firms and in addition to conveyancing, she also specialises in compliance, legal skills and professional conduct.

Lorraine is a main contributor for the monthly update publication for practitioners, 'The Practical Lawyer' and is delighted that her new book, 'A Practical Guide to Residential Freehold Conveyancing', has been published by Law Brief Publishing.
