In April 2023 the SRA Standards and Regulations were amended to place new duties on law firms and partners in law firms. Firms need to be alert to the wellbeing risks and about the revised SRA expectations on them in respect of workplace culture and the publication of SRA Guidance in May 2023 to support the new rules. These new expectations are still coming as a surprise to Chief Executives and Senior Partners when partners and staff clash. This webinar aims to remove that issue in your firm. This webinar will cover:

- SRA new provisions on fair treatment of staff and contractors
- Key considerations for law firms
- When action may be taken by the SRA
- The impact on supervision requirements
- How law firms can tackle the implementation of the new rules and what good looks like
- Key takeaways

Who should attend: All law firm partners and law firm managers

Speaker Profile:

This webinar will be presented by PAUL BENNETT Paul is the immediate past Chair of the Law Society of England and Wales Regulatory Processes Committee (RPC) and current Chair of the Leadership and Management Section (LMS). He has delivered training to lawyers and law firms for more than 15 years on management and regulation issues. Paul solves problems for law firms and professional practices. He is a solicitor, mediator and arbitrator who advises daily on law firms and solicitors on SRA regulatory matters, on mergers and acquisitions, employment, and partnership law. Clients have included the Law Society on the SRA's 2019 reform programme and a number of the legal regulators. An author of four legal books and numerous articles on the legal profession, Paul aims to give solutions to legal and management problems for clients.
